Sambong, taken in 2006 in Reite village.

Where it is said they have many wild dogs and the teeth are collected when people make gardens in the bush. In Reite they are made into emungu - forehead decorations, and into Keri Keri, which are hung down the back.

 We examined items in the Museum's collection from PNG and discussed what they are made from, how they were used and if Pinabin and Peter know their meanings or stories.
