We'll be using these eBooks as guidebooks to photograph the city and will be producing a collaborative photo essay that will be made available online as a slide show and in a series of eBooks that can be downloaded and shared. We'd appreciate it if you'd include your name and email address below so we can let you know when the photo essays are available to view and download.

Our request is simple. Please use this eBook to describe and identify the locations of four signs of a creative city. Signs could be buildings, design features, amenities, facilities, even people. We've included a space where you can draw a map and mark the location of your sites.

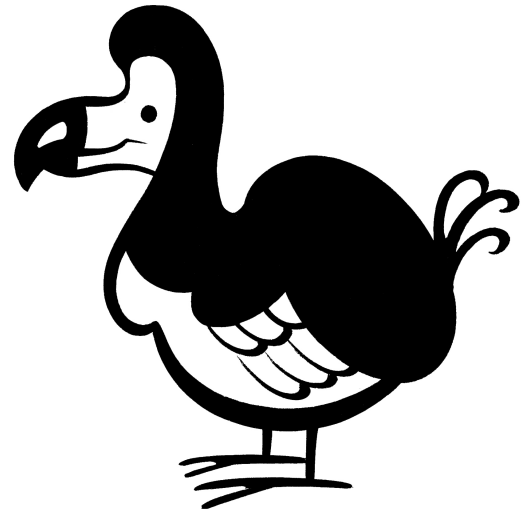

There has been much discussion and theorizing recently about what makes a city or community truly creative. Dodolab would like to consider this question in a way that is focused and collaborative.
