

Fingers scrabble idly at pocket seams, forage between teeth,
 sturdily grasp tepid cups, patter a drumbeat on knees They tense and retract as their owners glance at flickering digits pinpoints of light, radiating promises of home

Sketches in the City

Radhika Patel, Mandy Tang, Hazem Tagiuri

Filthy wings flutter overhead, cutting through the stale air They come to rest, on rafters and parapets plodding around spikes littered with shreds of feathers, ignorant of the sharp points Eyes hungrily jerking to and fro, seeking abandoned scraps and havens of respite

2011-02-18

Photographs, sketches and poems from observations in Victoria and Waterloo stations, London.

Radhika Patel, Mandy Tang, Hazem Tagiuri

made with www.bookleteer.com from proboscis

