Field Notebook - Kitchener

This notebook has been designed to help you investigate Kitchener's downtown. There are a series of questions we want you to think about and respond to. These questions are repeated in the second half of the book and we would like you to use these questions to talk to people on the street or in shops. You don't have to talk to a lot of people but 5 individuals or groups would be fine.

You'll be working in small groups and we are providing a camera, audio recorder and container for you to document and collect things on your investigation. The questions in this booklet can guide you in how you use the tools provided. We'll be producing publications, podcasts and other projects from the material, images and ideas you collect so be sure to write things down, draw, take pictures and record what you encounter. Our primary goal with this project is to document and share your perspectives on the city. The more you document and share your perspectives to work with.

Working in a group can be a challenge so before you head out into the city to investigate, make sure you understand what each group member is comfortable doing and what experience and skills they have. Remember to be aware of each other's perspectives and to listen and record your ideas. It is very easy in a group to have lots of great discussions and forget to record what's going on.
