

common consent by act of parliament; and that none be called to make answer, or take such oath, or to give attendance, or be confined, or otherwise molested or disquieted concerning the same or for refusal thereof; and that no freeman, in any such manner as is before mentioned, be imprisoned or detained; and that your Majesty would be pleased to remove the said soldiers and mariners, and that your people may not be so burdened in time to come; and that the aforesaid commissions, for proceeding by martial law, may be revoked and annulled; and that hereafter no commissions of like nature may issue forth to any person or persons whatsoever to be executed as aforesaid, lest by color of them any of your Majesty's subjects be destroyed or put to death contrary to the laws and franchise of the land.

XI. All which they most humbly pray of your most excellent Majesty as their rights and liberties, according to the laws and statutes of this realm; and that your Majesty would also vouchsafe to declare, that the awards, doings, and proceedings, to the prejudice of your people in any of the premises, shall not be drawn hereafter into consequence or example; and that your Majesty would be also graciously pleased, for the benevolence, tax, or such like charge, without compelled to make or yield any gift, loan, excellelent Majesty, that no man hereafter be X. They do therefore humbly pray Your most statutes of this your realm.

wholely and directly contrary to the said laws and commissions, and all other of like nature, are authority of such commissions as aforesaid; which were punishable only by martial law, and by statutes, upon pretense that the said offenders such offenders according to the same laws and unjustly refused or forbore to proceed against statutes of this your realm, by reason that divers offenders claiming an exemption, have escaped the IX. And also sundry grievous offenders, by color punishments due to them by the laws and of your officers and ministers of justice have been judged and executed.

also they might, and by no other ought to have deserved death, by the same laws and statutes by the laws and statutes of the land they had committed others put to death, when and where, if subjects have been by some of Your Majesty's franchise of the land; and by other laws of this because such loans were against reason and the make any loans to the King against his will, thenceforth no person should be compelled to Edward III, it is declared and enacted, that from five-and-twentyeth Year of the reign of King authority of parliament holden in the free men of the commonalty of this realm; and by barons, knights, burgesses, and other the will and assent of the archbishops, bishops, earls, King or his heirs in this realm, without the good that no tallage or aid shall be laid or levied by the called Stratutum de Tellegioun Concedendo, time of the reign of King Edward I, commonly declared and enacted by a statute made in the in Parliament and Temporal, and Commons the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, in this

Humbly shew unto our Sovereign Lord the King, in Parliament.

To the King's Most Excellelent Majesty,

Parliament. King's Majesty's royal answer therunto in full Rightes and Liberties of the Subjects, with the present Parliament assembled, concerning divers Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this The Petition exhibited to his Majesty by the Lords available to download, print out and share.

1628 Petition of Right

English Parliament

DIFFUSION Ebooks are designed to be freely
www.diffusion.org.uk

created on: Fri Aug 29 22:54:28 2008
English Parliament
1628 Petition of Right

realm it is provided, that none should be charged by any charge or imposition called a benevolence, nor by such like charge; by which statutes before mentioned, and other the good laws and statutes of this realm, your subjects have inherited this freedom, that they should not be compelled to contribute to any tax, tallage, aid, or other like charge not set by common consent, in parliament.

II. Yet nevertheless of late divers commissions directed to sundry commissioners in several counties, with instructions, have issued; by means whereof your people have been in divers places assembled, and required to lend certain sums of money unto your Majesty, and many of them, upon their refusal so to do, have had an oath administered unto them not warrantable by the laws or statutes of this realm, and have been constrained to become bound and make appearance and give utterance before your Privy Council and in other places, and others of them have been therefore imprisoned, confined, and sundry other ways molested and disquieted; and divers other charges have been laid and levied upon your people in several counties by lord lieutenants, deputy lieutenants, commissioners for musters, justices of peace and others, by

V. Nevertheless, against the tenor of the said statutes, and other the good laws and statutes of your realm to that end provided, divers of your subjects have of late been imprisoned without any

VI. And in the eight-and-twentieth year of the reign of king Edward III, it was declared and enacted by authority of parliament, that no man, put out of his land or tenements, nor taken, nor imprisoned, nor disinherited nor put to death without being brought to answer by due process of law.

III. And whereas also by the statute called 'The Great Charter of the Liberties of England', it is declared and enacted, that no freeman may be taken or imprisoned or be disseized of his freehold or liberties, or his free customs, or be outlawed or exiled, or in any manner destroyed, but by the lawful judgment of his peers, or by the law of the land.

Privy Council, against the laws and free custom of command or direction from Your Majesty, or Your cause showed; and when for their deliverance they were brought before your justices by your Majesty's writs of habeas corpus, there to undergo and receive as the court should order, and their keepers commanded to certify the causes of their detainer, no cause was certified, but that they were detained by your Majesty's special command, signified by the lords of your Privy Council, and yet were returned back to several prisons, without being charged with anything to which they might make answer according to the law.

VI. And whereas of late great companies of soldiers and mariners have been dispersed into divers counties of the realm, and the inhabitants against their wills have been compelled to receive them into their houses, and there to suffer them to sojourn against the laws and customs of this realm, and to the great grievance and vexation of the people.

VII. And whereas also by authority of parliament, in the five-and-twentieth year of the reign of King Edward III, it is declared and enacted, that no man shall be forejudged of life or limb against the

Majesty, and the prosperity of this kingdom, of this realm, as they tender the honor of your shall serve you according to the laws and statutes things aforesaid all your officers and ministers declare your royal will and pleasure, that in the further comfort and safety of your people, to

to the law martial. causes to be executed and put to death according and condemnation of such offenders, and them to in armes in time of war, to proceed to the trial order as is agreeable to martial law, and is used whatsoever, and by such summary course and mutiny, or other outrage or misdemeanor should commit any murder, robbery, felony, or other dissolute persons joining with them, as of martial law, against such soldiers or mariners, proceeded within the land, according to the justice commissioners with power and authority to persons have been assigned and appointed great seal have issued forth, by which certain time divers commissions under Your Majesty's statutes of this your realm; nevertheless of late punishments to be inflicted by the laws and examples from the proceedings to be used, and whereas no offender of what kind soever is same realm, or by acts of parliament: and in this your realm, either by the customs of the be adjudged to death but by the laws established and statutes of this your realm, no man ought to be adjudged to death but by the laws and statutes of the said Charter and other the laws and by the Great Charter and the law of the land;

Sourced from The Constitution Society:
<http://www.constitution.org/>