Planning is a wide-ranging field that touches each of our lives on a daily basis. Planning incorporates areas such as economics, design, ecology, sociology, geography, law, political science, and statistics to guide and ensure the orderly development of our communities.

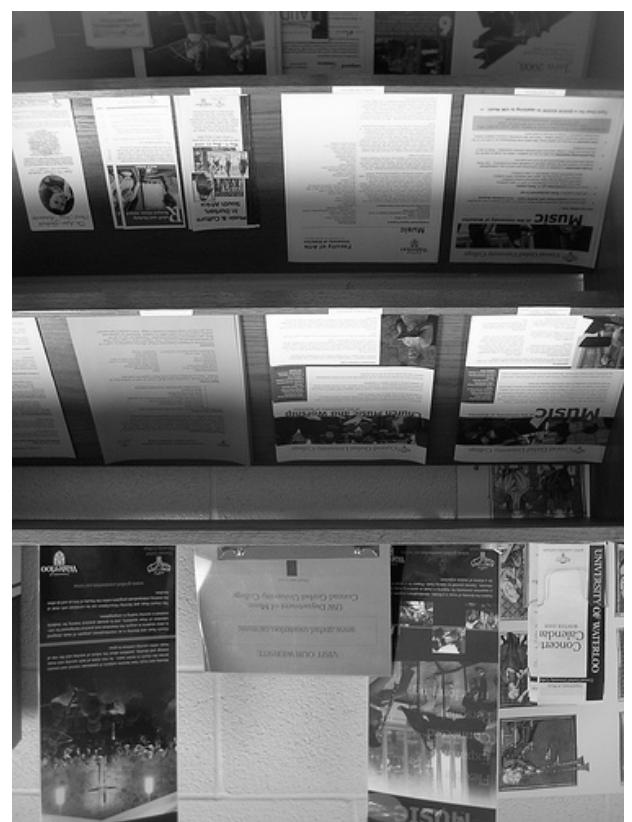

Phase 1 includes an office tower right at the corner of King and Victoria Streets, and an attached four-story L-shaped structure for classes, a library/resource centre, a food outlet and teaching and research labs...
Sustainable building design will be incorporated where possible. The intent is to create a state-of-the-art building to attract top quality students and faculty and support the revitalization of the area."

The talk began at 9:45 and covered topics ranging from software and innovation to entrepreneurship and philanthropy. He spoke for a half hour, then took questions from the audience.

Conrad Grebel's Peace and Conflict Studies (PACS) Program is the oldest Peace Studies program in Canada. Graduates use their training in diverse fields. They have become community leaders in conflict management, human resources work, international development and teaching.

At the core of our plan is a commitment to investing in high quality people. By 2010, we'll bring in 83 new faculty members, 37.5 new staff members, and 525 more graduate students; and a moderate, strategic growth in undergraduate studies will ensure top students continue our tradition of undergraduate excellence.
