

dangerous enemies, and who stay at home on purpose with a design to deliver the kingdom to the Pretender, hoping to take their advantage by the absence of so many good Protestants, who have chosen rather to leave their country, than stay at home and pay tithes against their conscience to an episcopal curate.

Secondly, The poorer tenants will have something valuable of their own, which by law may be made liable to a distress, and help to pay their landlord's rent, their corn and cattle being already seized, and money a thing unknown.

Thirdly, Whereas the maintainance of an hundred thousand children, from two years old, and upwards, cannot be computed at less than ten shillings a piece per annum, the nation's stock will be thereby encreased fifty thousand pounds per annum, besides the profit of a new dish, introduced to the tables of all gentlemen of fortune in the kingdom, who have any refinement in taste. And the money will circulate among our selves, the goods being entirely of our own growth and manufacture.

Fourthly, The constant breeders, besides the gain of eight shillings sterling per annum by the sale of their children, will be rid of the charge of

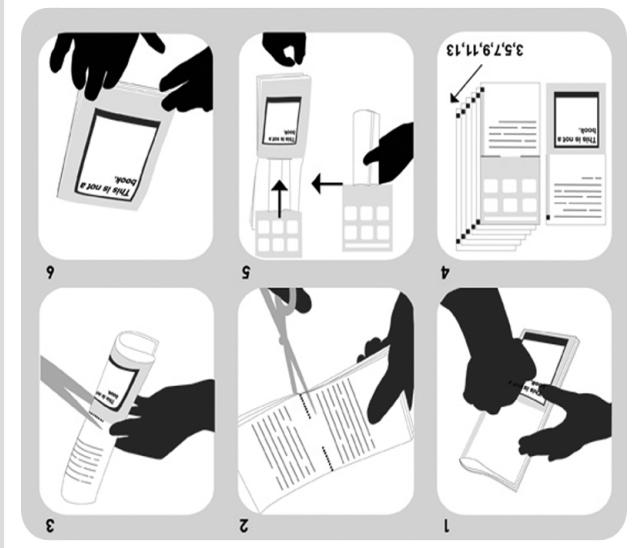

A Modest Proposal

Jonathan Swift

DIFFUSION GENERATOR

breeders of the nation, as well as our most poor people in Ireland, from being a burden on their parents or country, and for making them greatly lessen the number of Papists, with whom For first, as I have already observed, it would many, as well as of the highest importance. the proposal which I have made are obvious and return to my subject. I think the advantages by I have too long digressed, and therefore shall from the evils to come.
country and themselves are happily delivered have not strength to perform it, and thus the are accidentally hired to common labour, they nourishment, to a degree, that if at any time they consequently pine away from want of condition. They can get work, and can be reasonably expected. And as to the young that they are every day dying, and rotting, by upon that matter, because it is very well known, an incumbrance. But I am not in the least pain may be taken, to ease the nation of so grievous been desired to employ my thoughts what course who are aged, diseased, or maimed; and I have concern about that vast number of poor people, Some persons of a desponding spirit are in great find out a fair, cheap and easy method of making additionall grievance; and therefore whoever could desirable state of the kingdom, a very great fredeunlly of their fathers, is in the present the backs, or at the heels of their mothers, and prodigious number of children in the arms, or on I think it is agreed by all parties, that this Spain, or sell themselves to the Barbadoes. either turn thieves for want of work, or leave their employ all their time in strolling to beg sustenance work for their honest livelihood, are forced to alms. These mothers instead of being able to sex, followed by three, four, or six children, all in cabbin-doors crowded with beggars of the female when they see the streets, the roads and through this great town, or travel in the country, It is a melancholy object to those, who walk by Dr. Jonathan Swift. 1729 beneficial to the publick.

poor people in Ireland, from being a burden on
their parents or country, and for making them
A modest proposal for preventing the children of available to download, print out and share.

DIFFUSION EBOOKS are designed to be freely www.diffusion.org.uk

created on: Wed Mar 5 15:54:27 2008
Jonathan Swift
A Modest Proposal

these children sound and useful members of the common-wealth, would deserve so well of the publick, as to have his statue set up for a preserver of the nation.

But my intention is very far from being confined to provide only for the children of professed beggars: it is of a much greater extent, and shall take in the whole number of infants at a certain age, who are born of parents in effect as little able to support them, as those who demand our charity in the streets.

As to my own part, having turned my thoughts for many years, upon this important subject, and maturely weighed the several schemes of our projectors, I have always found them grossly mistaken in their computation. It is true, a child just dropt from its dam, may be supported by her milk, for a solar year, with little other nourishment: at most not above the value of two shillings, which the mother may certainly get, or the value in scraps, by her lawful occupation of begging; and it is exactly at one year old that I propose to provide for them in such a manner, as, instead of being a charge upon their parents, or the parish, or wanting food and raiment for the rest of their lives, they shall, on the contrary, shall be reared, and provided for? which, as I form. The question therefore is, How this number twenty thousand children of poor parents annually die by accident or disease within the year. There only remain an hundred and whose children die by accident or disease within fifty thousand, for those women who miscarry, or and seventy thousand breeders. I again subtract and seizeing granted, there will remain an hundred this being present distresses of the Kingdom) but under the present distresses of the Kingdom) but (although I apprehend there cannot be so many, who are able to maintain their own children, which number I subtract thirty thousand couples, from thousand couple whose wives are breeders, from calculate there may be about two hundred reckoned one million and a half, of these I The number of souls in this Kingdom usually the most savage and inhuman breast. The shame, which would move tears and pity in bases, I doubt, more to avoid the expense than frequent among us, sacrificing the poor innocent murthering their bastard children, alas! too scheme, that it will prevent those voluntary abortions, and that horrid practice of women contributing to the feeding, and partly to the cloathing of many thousands. There is likewise another great advantage in my

the weather, and the most inevitable prospect of intailing the like, or greater miseries, upon their breed for ever.

I profess, in the sincerity of my heart, that I have not the least personal interest in endeavouring to promote this necessary work, having no other motive than the publick good of my country, by advancing our trade, providing for infants, relieving the poor, and giving some pleasure to the rich. I have no children, by which I can propose to get a single penny; the youngest being nine years old, and my wife past child-bearing.

Text from Project Gutenberg, www.gutenberg.org have already said, under the present situation of affairs, is utterly impossible by all the methods hitherto proposed. For we can neither employ them in handicraft or agriculture; we neither build houses, (I mean in the country) nor cultivate land: they can very seldom pick up a livelihood by stealing till they arrive at six years old; except where they are ofowardly parts, although I confess they learn the rudiments much earlier; during which time they can however be properly looked upon only as probationers: As I have been informed by a principal gentleman in the county of Cavan, who protested to me, that he never knew above one or two instances under the age of six, even in a part of the kingdom so renowned for the quickest proficiency in that art.

I am assured by our merchants, that a boy or a girl before twelve years old, is no saleable commodity, and even when they come to this age, they will not yield above three pounds, or three pounds and half a crown at most, on the exchange; which cannot turn to account either to the parents or kingdom, the charge of nutriments and rags having been at least four times that value.

cloaths to cover them from the inclemencies of common sustenance, with neither house nor paying rent without money or trade, the want of the oppression of landlords, the impossibility of misfortunes, as they have since gone through, by have avoided such a perpetual scene of year old, in the manner I prescribe, and thereby whether they would not at this day think it a great happiness to have been sold for food at a million first ask the parents of these mortals, they will perhaps be so bold to attempt an answer, that politicians who dislike my overture, and may chidren, who are beggars in effect; I desire those cottagers and labourers, with their wives and beggars by profession, to the bulk of farmers, common stock, would leave them in debt two Kingdrom, whose whole subsistence put into a creatures in humane figure throughout this And secondly, There being a round million of a hundred thousand useless mouths and backs. how they will be able to find food and raiment for consider two points. First, As things now stand, author or authors will be pleased maturity to my scheme, and offering a better, I desire the of that kind shall be advanced in contradicition to cheap, easy, and effectual. But before something good table. A child will make two dishes at an month, so as to render them plump, and fat for a mother to let them suck plentifully in the last fortune, through the Kingdrom, always advising be offered in sale to the persons of quality and remaining hundred thousand may, at a year old, be sufficient to serve four females. That the regarded by our savages, therefore, one male will the fruits of marriage, a circumstance not much and my reason is, that these children are seldom than we allow to sheep, black cattle, or swine, only one fourth part to be males, which is more thousand may be reserved for bread, whereof consideration, that of the hundred and twenty thousand children, already computed, twenty thousand ragouset.

I do therefore humbly offer it to publick doubt that it will equally serve in a fricasie, or a stewed, roasted, baked, or boiled; and I make no delicious nourishing and wholesome food, whether healthy child well nursed, is, at a year old, a most of my acquaintance in London, that a young I have been assured by a very knowing American thoughts, which I hope will not be liable to the I shall now therefore humbly propose my own least objection.

native goods, would immediately unite to cheat and exact upon us in the price, the measure, and the goodness, nor could ever yet be brought to make one fair proposal of just dealing, though often and earnestly invited to it.

Therefore I repeat, let no man talk to me of these and the like expedients, 'till he hath at least some gllympse of hope, that there will ever be some hearty and sincere attempt to put them into practice.

But, as to my self, having been wearied out for many years with offering vain, idle, visionary thoughts, and at length utterly despairing of success, I fortunately fell upon this proposal, which, as it is wholly new, so it hath something solid and real, of no expence and little trouble, full in our own power, and whereby we can incur no danger in disobliging England. For this kind of commodity will not bear exportation, and flesh being of too tender a consistence, to admit a long continuance in salt, although perhaps I could name a country, which would be glad to eat up our whole nation without it.

After all, I am not so violently bent upon my own opinion, as to reject any offer, proposed by wise men, which shall be found equally innocent, entertainment for friends, and when the family dines alone, the fore or hind quarter will make a reasonable dish, and seasoned with a little pepper or salt, will be very good boiled on the fourth day, especially in winter.

I have reckoned upon a medium, that a child just born will weigh 12 pounds, and in a solar year, if tolerably nursed, increaseth to 28 pounds.

I grant this food will be somewhat dear, and therefore very proper for landlords, who, as they have already devoured most of the parents, seem to have the best title to the children.

Infant's flesh will be in season throughout the year, but more plentiful in March, and a little before and after; for we are told by a grave author, an eminent French physician, that fish being a prolifick dyet, there are more children born in Roman Catholick countries about nine months after Lent, the markets will be more glutted than usual, because the number of Popish infants, is at least three to one in this kingdom, and therefore it will have one other collateral advantage, by lessening the number of Papists among us.

I have already computed the charge of nursing a beggar's chid (in which list I reckon all cottagers, about two shillings per annum, rags included) and labourers, and four-fifths of the farmers) to be
I believe no gentleman would repine to give ten shillings for the carcass of a good fat chid, which, as I have said, will make four dishes of excellent nutritive meat, when he hath only some particular friends, or his own family to dine with him. Thus the squire will learn to be a good landlord, and have eight shillings neat profit, and be fit for work grow popular among his tenants, the mother will dress them hot from the knife, as we do assured will not be wanting; although I rather convenient parts of it, and butchers we may be appoineted for this purpose, in the most As to our City of Dublin, shambles may be roasting pigs.
Those who are more thrifty (as I must confess the times require) may flea the carcass; the skin of which, artificially dressed, will make admirable gloves for ladies, and summer boots for fine gentlemen.

I have alread computed the charge of nursing a beggar's chid (in which list I reckon all cottagers, about two shillings per annum, rags included) and labourers, and four-fifths of the farmers) to be
I believe no gentleman would repine to give ten shillings for the carcass of a good fat chid, which, as I have said, will make four dishes of excellent nutritive meat, when he hath only some particular friends, or his own family to dine with him. Thus the squire will learn to be a good landlord, and have eight shillings neat profit, and be fit for work grow popular among his tenants, the mother will dress them hot from the knife, as we do assured will not be wanting; although I rather convenient parts of it, and butchers we may be appoineted for this purpose, in the most As to our City of Dublin, shambles may be
roasting pigs.
Those who are more thrifty (as I must confess the times require) may flea the carcass; the skin of which, artificially dressed, will make admirable gloves for ladies, and summer boots for fine gentlemen.

frequent a practice) for fear of a miscarriage.

Many other advantages might be enumerated. For instance, the addition of some thousand carcasses in our exportation of barrel'd beef: the propagation of swine's flesh, and improvement in the art of making good bacon, so much wanted among us by the great destruction of pigs, too frequent at our tables; which are no way comparable in taste or magnificence to a well grown, fat yearly child, which roasted whole will make a considerable figure at a Lord Mayor's feast, or any other publick entertainment. But this, and many others, I omit, being studious of brevity.

Supposing that one thousand families in this city, would be constant customers for infants flesh, besides others who might have it at merry meetings, particularly at weddings and christenings, I compute that Dublin would take off annually about twenty thousand carcasses; and the rest of the kingdom (where probably they will be sold somewhat cheaper) the remaining eighty thousand.

I can think of no one objection, that will possibly be raised against this proposal, unless it should be urged, that the number of people will be

A very worthy person, a true lover of his country, and whose virtues I highly esteem, was lately pleased, in discoursing on this matter, to offer a refinement upon my scheme. He said, that many gentlemen of this kingdom, having of late destroyed their deer, he conceived that the want of venison might be well supply'd by the bodies of young lads and maidens, not exceeding fourteen years of age, nor under twelve; so great a number of both sexes in every country being now ready to starve for want of work and service: And these to be disposed of by their parents if alive, or otherwise by their nearest relations. But with due deference to so excellent a friend, and so deserving a patriot, I cannot be altogether in his sentiments; for as to the males, my American acquaintance assured me from frequent experience, that their flesh was generally tough and lean, like that of our school-boys, by continual exercise, and their taste disagreeable, and to fatten them would not answer the charge. Then as to the females, it would, I think, with humble submission, be a loss to the publick, because they soon would become breeders themselves: And besides, it is not improbable that some scrupulous people might be apt to censure such a practice, (although indeed very unjustly) farrows; nor offer to beat or kick them (as is too common), as they are now of their mares in foal, found of their wives, during the time of their pregnancy, when they are now out of their bellies, and their cows in calf, or sow when they are ready to farrow, when they were sure of a settlement for life to the poor babes, provided in some sort by the publick, when they were sure of a settlement for life to the tenderness of mothers towards their children, Sixtily, This would be a great inducement to encourage, which all wise nations have either penalties. It would increase the care and penalties, It would increase the care and encourage, which all wise nations have either Sixtily, This would be a great inducement to please. will contrive to make it as expensive as they will, who understand how to oblige his guests, cook, who understand how to oblige his guests, upon their knowledge in good eating; and a skillful the fine gentlemen, who justly value themselves consequently have their houses frequented by all receipts for dressing it to perfection; and custom to taverns, where the virtuous will certainly be so prudent as to procure the best Fifthly, This food would likewise bring great maintaining them after the first year.